

NEW DALY CITY THEATRE OPENS NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

MAYOR SMITH AND OTHER OFFICIALS TO AID IN DEDICATION

The new Daly City Theatre, the construction of which residents of Daly City have watched with pride, will open Tuesday, November 27. This date will mark the beginning of a new era for the amusement loving people of Daly City, Colma and vicinity.

"The utmost in entertainment and service will be our aim in operating the Daly City Theatre," reads a statement issued today by Edward B. Baron and Carol A. Nathan, who have taken a long lease on the theatre. "The best the market affords in motion pictures and stage entertainment will be provided for our patrons," the statement continues.

Mayor Will Speak
Mayor H. H. Smith of Daly City will preside at the dedication Tuesday night. The dedicatory address will be made by J. E. McCurdy, city attorney. There will be no other formality, as it is the belief of Messrs. Baron and Nathan that the public is most interested in the theatre and the entertainment to be found therein.

A lavish program for opening night is in preparation, but a complete list of its attractions was not available at the time of going to press. Among the special event nights which will be scheduled regularly are: Wednesday, a Juvenile Revue; Saturday, Ellen Rose's Dancing Dolls in a diminutive revue to be staged both at the matinee and evening performance; Sunday, vaudeville and special acts under the direction of a master of ceremonies.

Music, perfectly scored to the pictures, will be provided by a $22,500 Robert Morton orchestral organ, which reproduces every instrument in an orchestra.

Architecture is Unique
The architecture of the new theatre is unique. There is no theatre of its type in San Francisco or on the Peninsula. It is built after the style which is considered the newest thing in theatrical construction, the atmospheric theatre. This creates the effect of a theatre "under the stars" with the audience seated under a "blue sky" ceiling and surrounded by a garden. Fleecy clouds float lazily in the sky, a fountain tinkles in the center of the lobby and fresh, clean air from a highly perfected ventilating system completes the illusion of a theatre in the open air.

The garden scenes are painted realistically in a series of panels encircling the entire auditorium. They are set in eighteen openings in a Spanish wall which completely surrounds the audience. By clever lighting these scenes are made to appear outside the theatre.

Seats Are Comfortable
Nothing has been overlooked that would add to the comfort, convenience or safety of patrons. All seats are on one floor, which slopes gently so that an unobstructed view may be had of the stage and screen from any of the 1,250 seats. The stage is one of the largest in any community theatre in the Bay region and is capable of accommodating most elaborate attractions.

Smoking and retiring rooms are complete, spacious and comfortable. The very latest equipment has been installed in the projection room, insuring perfect pictures on the screen and a total absence of eye strain. Heavily carpeted floors will add to the comfort of patrons. Drapes and furniture will be in warm colors.

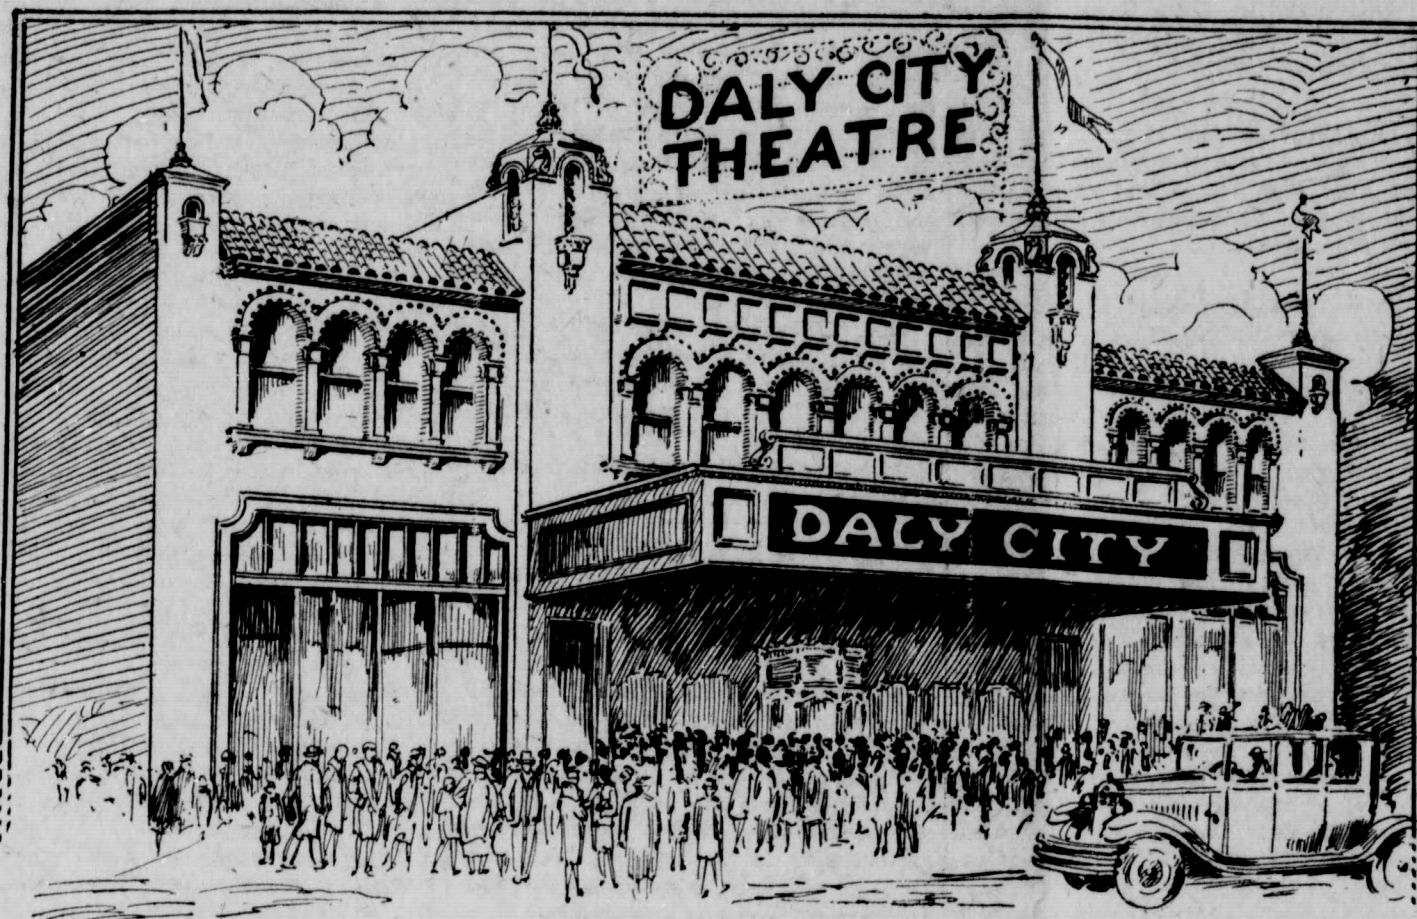

"Your Theatre"
In welcoming the residents of Daly City to the new motion picture playhouse, the management expresses its friendliness and goodwill, saying:

"This is your theatre. We want you, good people of Daly City, Colma and vicinity, to regard the Daly City Theatre as your home of entertainment. We welcome suggestions that will enable us to provide amusement worthy of you and your city. Call upon us . . . write us . . . telephone . . . we are yours to command."

Doors will open at 6:30 Tuesday night, the first performance commencing at 7 o'clock. There will be two complete performances.

ROMERO PLEADS GUILTY TO SHOOTING OF LOPER

Jose Romero, who recently pleaded not guilty to the murder of Frank C. Loper, of Redwood City, changed his plea to guilty of "assault with a deadly weapon and with intent to do great bodily harm," before Judge George H. Buck last Monday. Loper died of a gunshot wound several months following a shooting scrape in Redwood City, after a wedding party.

Artist's sketch shows Daly City's community theatre, which stands completed at Mission and Flournoy streets, awaiting the grand opening Tuesday night.

OPENING OF SOCIAL CENTER SCHEDULED FOR THANKSGIVING

On Thanksgiving morning the social center of St. Maximus parish will be formally dedicated and opened to the people of the community with appropriate exercises, commencing at 10 o'clock.

The genial Professor W. J. Savage, superintendent of the local schools, will deliver the oration of the day in his own inimitable manner. Mayor H. H. Smith of Daly City will conduct the dedicatory exercises and act as the master of ceremonies in the field events that will follow.

There will be music, stunt races, a tug of war, handball matches, basketball, tennis and volleyball games, boxing and tumbling. The children of the parish will take part, assisted by teams from the Y. M. I. Juniors.

Thanksgiving day will mark the fulfillment of the desires of the people for a social and athletic center for the young of the parish.

The athletic field is ideally located. At the base of palisades that tower above it and form a natural amphitheater, it is protected from the disturbing influences of the weather. Running east to west as it does, it lies bathed in sunshine all the day long. A better spot, secluded and far removed from the dangers of the street, could hardly be found.

The field proper consists of two units, the handball alleys and the playing field. The two handball alleys are of the official size for doubles courts, being 24 feet in width and 48 feet in length. They are boxed and closed in on all sides, forming two of the best courts that can be found anywhere. The playing field has been so arranged that tennis, basketball, volleyball and playground baseball can be played on it, thus supplying a diversity of sports for the year. High wire netting protects the playing field on all sides.

CELEBRATES TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY OF BIRTH

Mrs. W. Oakley, of Templeton avenue, entertained a group of girls at her home on last Saturday afternoon, in honor of her daughter Gladys, who celebrated her twelfth birthday. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in playing games and dancing, after which the guests were invited into the dining room, where a beautifully decorated table awaited them, laden with good things to eat. The color scheme was yellow, and a huge birthday cake with twelve candles occupied the center of the table. Each guest found a pretty favor and cap at her place.

Those who were invited to help Gladys celebrate her birthday were the Misses Cora Torrish, Elsie Bodker, Mildred Mansfelt, Marian Mansfelt, Rose Moran, Mary Moran, Dorothy Moran, Gladys Eldrup, Gene Benner, Myrtle Augustien, Helen Knoll, Helen Reinhart, Mrs. C. Reinhart and Mrs. J. Mansfelt.

Mrs. W. F. Dorn, of Risel street, entertained a group of old friends at luncheon on Thursday of last week, having as her guests Mrs. Roy Fields, Mrs. James McDevitt, Mrs. Brutus Frnack, Mrs. G. De Reine, Mrs. Joe McDevitt and Mrs. J. A. Ny.

LOCAL EAGLES FAVOR THE OLD AGE PENSION

Members of Colma-Vista Grande Aerie No. 1848, Fraternal Order of Eagles, are at present engaged in a movement to secure the passage of the old age pension in the state of California. The proposed pension provides for a monthly allowance of $30 for any person who has attained the age of 70. About twenty states in the Union have already passed this act. Mayor H. H. Smith is at the head of the committee of Eagles that has this matter on their program, and the Eagles are being assisted by Ed Ford, secretary of the Veteran Firemen's Association, and F. V. Fenstermacher, secretary of the Daly City firemen.

On Thursday evening, November 15, a class initiation was held at Eagles' Hall. After the initiation a delightful banquet was served. So far this year the Eagles have initiated over one hundred members.

A Christmas entertainment is being planned by the local Eagles for the ladies and children, but as yet no definite date has been set.

POPULAR COUPLE TENDERED SHOWER BY THEIR FRIENDS

Last week Miss Frances Dickson and Mr. Frank Ferguson, both of San Francisco, were tendered a shower at the home of Mrs. Helena O'Connor, at 599 Evergreen avenue, by their many friends, and were presented with a beautiful large mirror. Those who had the pleasure of making this affair one long to be remembered were Elsie Fahy, Bobbie Heagney, Cora Gaspi-done, Audrey Diamond, Tess O'Connor, Edna Boyle, Marge O'Connor, Richard McCarthy, Louis Ehling, Roy Thomson, Nick Schloplein, Wallace Hill, Louis Vereiso, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Fischer, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Al Kennedy and the guests of honor, Miss Dickson and Mr. Ferguson.

CHILDREN ENJOY PARTY

Mrs. J. Lercari, of 80 Risel street, entertained a group of children on Friday afternoon, November 9, in honor of her little daughter Jacqueline, who celebrated her third birthday. The little guests were royally entertained throughout the afternoon, after which they were invited into the dining room to partake of dainty refreshments prepared by the hostess. The table was prettily decorated in yellow and pink, with favors to match. Jacqueline received many lovely gifts from her little friends. The guests were: Jacqueline Lercari, Lorraine Lercari, Patsy Goodwin, Florence Kiele, Helen Campbell, Gordon Kiele, James Goodwin, Bobby Dempsey, Jackie Cooney, Billie Schnoor, Wilbur Troy, Bobby Crooker, and Eugene Huber.

EL CARMELO WHIST PARTY PROVES DECIDED SUCCESS

The whist party and dance at the Daly City Auditorium sponsored by the drill team of El Carmelo Parlor No. 181, Native Daughters of the Golden West, was one of the most successful affairs ever held at the Auditorium. The chairlady, Lorraine Wall, with her committee, worked very hard to make this affair the success it was, and everyone had a most enjoyable evening. The hall was filled to capacity, there being Mayor H. H. Smith, who will preside at dedication of new theatre.

DALY CITY BOYS FIND BODY ON THE BEACH

Two Daly City boys, Nick Sanbrails, of 153 Santa Cruz avenue, and Malcolm Hofen, of 32 Bernal avenue, last Sunday found the body of a man on the beach near the Olympic Club golf links. The body was later identified as that of Bernard L. Hallmeyer, of San Jose. Hallmeyer is known in San Jose as the "man with many enemies," it being said that he was of a quarrelsome disposition and had made many enemies.

The clothing of the dead man was found to be filled with beach pebbles, indicating that Hallmeyer had walked into the surf with the intention of drowning himself. In his clothes, however, was a note declaring that if he was found murdered, Bill Lake did it. The Bill Lake referred to is a San Jose man. He denies any knowledge as to the manner in which Hallmeyer met death, and described the deceased as a man of a quarrelsome disposition. Police are still investigating, but it is generally believed that Hallmeyer committed suicide.

GRACE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Sunday school still holds the banner for the highest percentage of all the Sunday schools entered in the contest which has been running for six weeks. There is one more Sunday to go, and the superintendent, pastor and the teachers urge everyone to make a special effort to be on time Sunday morning at 10 o'clock prompt, and so enable us to keep up our record.

Junior Christian Endeavor meets at 11 a. m. Sunday. Senior Christian Endeavor at 7 p. m. Church services at 8 p. m. will be in the nature of a Thanksgiving service and will be attended by the members of the Boys' Club in a body. There will be a special collection on behalf of the National Missions. Musical selections by the choir; Miss Mildred Swan, pianist; Messrs. Walter and Jack Parker, violinists.

fifty tables of whist players, and those who attended are looking forward to another affair of this kind in the near future. Everyone praised the way the whist was conducted, as everything was done systematically and there was no confusion in handing such a large crowd. After the whist everyone enjoyed the dancing.

WELCOME EXTENDED LOCAL PASTOR ON RETURN TO LABORS

A large number of the members and friends of St. Maximus church gathered in the parochial hall last Monday evening upon the invitation of a committee of ladies. The tables were set for a simple luncheon, but the event of the evening was to extend to Father James Donohoe a hearty welcome home after his six months vacation trip to his native land, dear old Ireland. When the festivities began every seat was occupied and every one present was in a state of honest desire not to eat and drink but to listen and enjoy.

By common consent, W. J. Savage was made the toastmaster, and he began by stating that while all had endeavored to appear happy when they were met together six months before, still there was just a tinge of sadness connected with that meeting, as everyone knew that Father Donohoe would be away, for half a year, but for the present celebration there was nothing only happiness to be considered. Father Donohoe was at home and in perfect health, ready to meet any emergency.

Mayor H. H. Smith was the first called upon and he reported that the government of Daly City had been conducted fairly successful during the past six months, that the population and consequent responsibility had increased to a perceptible extent, that the future seemed very bright, and taking all things into consideration the city was now admitted to be a better place in which to live.

Prof. James Ferguson, principal of the Jefferson Union high school, was so moved he felt that only poetry could express his feelings. He said that in extending his welcome he could not but say he had found the high school children of this locality very respectful and obedient, and that he knew this condition came to a large number of them, on account of the careful, religious training due to Father Donohoe and his assistants. He emphasized that the respect and obedience of the children of the local high school were decidedly superior to that of several other communities in which he had more or less experience. Concluding he announced he was glad to express his welcome and was always ready to do his part willingly.

W. H. Clay, the representative of the law, in this city, said that the eloquent speakers present and the impressive setting made him feel slightly overpowered, yet it was a real pleasure for him to add his offering of genuine welcome home to Father Donohoe, as he was friendly to everybody, and was deserving of general good will. He, in a humorous manner, both complimented and criticized the toastmaster, causing a hearty burst of applause.

Father Lynch, who conducted the affairs of the parish during the pastor's absence, gave the account of his stewardship, by telling a most appropriate story. In his modesty and diffidence he refrained from mentioning the elaborate and inviting provision he has brought about for the athletic activities of the young people of the parish. What he has added to the parish will be dedicated on Thanksgiving day with appropriate ceremonies and all are to be present.

Trustee Moran spoke briefly, saying that the spiritual work of St. Maximus church was in excellent condition and that Father Donohoe could resume his command with the feeling that there was ample opportunity before him.

Several other gentlemen were called upon and each responded with an appropriate idea. No lady was called upon as per agreement with the committee, but the toastmaster spoke for all of them, complimenting them for their constant work to advance the interests of the church and all good efforts. Without them very little would be done. For instance, on this occasion they had prepared and managed every detail, not forgetting the grand set of Haviland China which had been purchased and was on exhibition, to hereafter grace Father Donohoe's dining room. The housekeeper had said the set of dishes was needed, sadly.

The last speaker of the evening was Father Donohoe. He said he had enjoyed his vacation with his mother and friends and relatives of boyhood days in Ireland, and yet was glad to return to his friends and his work in Daly City. He was very grateful for all the kind thoughts that had been expressed concerning him, but feared he was not, even in a mild way, quite deserving of any of them. He was just doing his best to meet the demands of his position and needed all the encouragement he could get. St.

SUPERVISORS DENY PERMIT FOR A SPUR TRACK IN VISITACION

The San Mateo county board of supervisors, in session at Redwood City last Monday, taking cognizance of the appeal of home owners, denied a permit for a spur track for industrial purposes in Visitacion Valley.

Supervisors Hickey, Poole and Thompson voted for, and Supervisors Brown and Francis voted against denial of the permit. The permit was sought by Harrigan, Weidenmuller Company, realtors, of San Francisco.

Arguments in favor of granting the request were made by E. M. Peck, a resident of the community; Harold K. Crane, representative of the company seeking the permit; C. Fleming of the industrial department of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, and Fred H. Drake, president of the San Mateo County Chamber of Commerce.

Property owners and residents of the district who appeared before the board and protested against factories being erected next door to their homes were C. G. Taylor, Mrs. Ethel Goodwin, Mrs. Eulalie Haynes and Mrs. R. Quinn.

The spur track, which would have opened up a 30 acre tract, had been approved by South San Francisco manufacturers, in addition to the San Mateo Chamber of Commerce and County Chamber of Commerce officials.

At the morning meeting of the supervisors two applications for positions as county traffic officers were filed, those of Leroy L. Brown, Redwood City, and Otto A. Schramm, Daly City.

ENTERTAIN PARTY OF FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. H. De Guerre, of 415 Evergreen avenue, entertained a number of their friends at their home last Saturday evening. The evening was spent in playing twenty hands of whist, after which dancing was enjoyed. At midnight tempting refreshments were served. The table was beautifully decorated in Thanksgiving colors, with favors to match. Dancing was then continued until the early hours of the morning. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Badgley, Mr. and Mrs. Borneman. The San Francisco police force was represented by Policemen Dave Doubleman and wife and Edward Franke and wife, and the San Francisco City Hall by Louie Landerville and wife and Jim Fogarty and wife.

MEETING OF LA FIESTA CLUB

The last meeting of La Fiesta Club was held at the home of Miss Marge O'Connor, at 599 Evergreen avenue. The regular business meeting was conducted by the club's president, Elsie Fahy, after which the hostesses for the evening, the Misses Marge and Tessie O'Connor, had the members adjourn to the dining room, where a dainty repast was served. The home was beautifully decorated with roses and autumn leaves, and those who had a most enjoyable evening were Elsie Fahy, Sarah Battaini, Audrey Diamond, Bobbie Heagney, Collista Dalton, Lorraine Wall, Christine Hume, Laura Figone, Edna Boyle, Florence Hopman, Nora Healey, Esther Forsell, Louise Clemen, and Marge and Tessie O'Connor.

TENDERED FAREWELL PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. G. Holmberg, of Peoria street, entertained a number of friends and relatives last Saturday evening at a farewell party given in honor of Mrs. Holmberg's sister, Miss Clara Behrens, who has been their house guest for the past three months. Miss Behrens left the first of this week for Penn Grove, where she will visit indefinitely with her sister, Mrs. Al Herman. The evening was spent playing games, after which tempting refreshments were served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. W. Christien, of San Jose; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Van Bebler, Mr. and Mrs. Al Herman, of Penn Grove; Mrs. Flora Foppiano, Miss Christen Hansen and Mr. G. Sumners.

Maximus church and residence represent an investment of $110,000, of which only $30,000 remains unpaid. From now on there is no serious financial problem, and, instead, more energy may be devoted to spiritual needs. He gave an extended description of all his varied experiences from the day he went away until his return. From beginning to end it was listened to with closest attention.

MENLO PARK RECALL LEADERS
CLAIM 500 NAMES ON PETITION

Leaders of the recall movement in Menlo Park against Councilmen Alexander Walker and Alfred E. Blake are reported to have retained two attorneys to advise them in their fight to oust the Menlo Park board members from office. Although they declare nearly 500 names have been placed on the recall petition, it is understood they will secure further legal advice before presenting their petition, probably within the next two weeks.

Gus Vlakos, Burlingame restaurant man, given probation in the Superior court last month after having beaten his wife with a glass bowl, has again been taken into custody following alleged renewal of threats against his wife.

FETE SAN SEBASTIAN
TO BE HELD DECEMBER 8

All sections of California will be represented in the state-wide contest being launched this week among young ladies, to select the queen and princesses of her royal court of the "Fete San Sebastian," to be held in San Francisco, December 8 to 16, inclusive. Miss Julia Nation will represent Daly City in the contest.

Under the direction of a citizens' committee of several hundred prominent men and women, a civic celebration will be staged in the Civic Auditorium and Civic Center every afternoon and evening during the period of the Fiesta; and many world dignitaries and nationally celebrated people will visit San Francisco for the Fete. An invitation has been extended to the Infante Don Alfonso, first cousin of the king of Spain, to attend the "Fete San Sebastian," with his wife and eldest son, with whom he is now visiting the United States, and preside at the coronation of the queen and princesses, maids-of-honor and ladies-in-waiting of the royal court of the Fiesta.

The "Fete San Sebastian" is expected to prove a worthy successor to San Francisco's world-famed Portola Festival of former years, and will attract throngs of visitors to San Francisco and all California, it is expected.

RURAL HIGH SCHOOLS
OUTNUMBER CITY SCHOOLS

There are a greater number of high schools in the country than in the city, but those in the cities are larger and their numerical total of attendance is greater than in the country schools, according to statistics of the Department of the Interior. It was stated that the country youth has less opportunity to continue at his books through the secondary stages of education than has the city youth.

These facts are compiled by the Federal Bureau of Education. It states that there are today in the United States 21,700 high schools. Reports have been received from 17,711 of these, of which 3,960, or 22.4 per cent, are urban high schools, that is, they are located in centers of 2,500 or more population; 13,751 or 77.6 per cent, are rural—located in centers of 2,500 or less in population. In the 13,751 rural high schools in the United States there are only 1,079,086 children, or 28.8 per cent of the total high school enrollment; in the 3,960 urban high schools there are 2,662,364 children, of 72.1 per cent of the total enrollment.

As secondary education has developed and is now functioning, the urban high school child has a much better chance to go to high school, and when he does go he enjoys an educational opportunity much better adjusted to life's needs than that now available in the rural schools.

CALIFORNIA SINGERS
WIN RADIO CONTEST

Full details of the Far Western radio contest in which two young California singers defeated the best the West could produce have just been given out by audition officials.

The contest was held at KPO on the night of Monday, November 12, and was broadcast over the Pacific coast network. A boy and girl winner from each of nine Western states competed.

Winners were Miss Dove Irene Kilgore, 21 year old Oakland soprano who was announced as No. 49 and sang the "Caro Nome" aria from Rigoletto, and Donald Novis, 22 year old Pasadena tenor, who was announced as No. 98 and sang in French an aria from Manon Lescaut. California was divided into two "states" for this contest. Miss Kilgore, a junior in the University of California, was representing Northern California and Novis, a student at Whittier College, representing Southern California.

These two young singers will go East as guests of the Atwater Kent Foundation to represent the Far West in the finals of the national radio audition. They will compete with winners from the other four districts into which the country is divided. This final audition will be held in New York on the night of Sunday, December 16, and will be broadcast over a nation-wide hookup.

COURT GIVES JAPANESE
RIGHT TO LEASE LAND

According to a ruling by the United States Supreme Court, as announced in dispatches from Washington, Japanese residents of California have the legal right to lease land in this state for hospital purposes.

The ruling gives the final word in a dispute arising from the plans of Dr. K. Tashiro and other Japanese physicians, who plan to establish a Japanese hospital in Los Angeles. The decision, however, does not permit Japanese to lease land for agricultural purposes.

According to the decision of the United States Supreme Court, the treaty authorizing Japanese corporations to lease lands for commercial purpose is broad enough to permit the incorporation of the hospital association and the leasing of land by it. Through the office of the attorney general, the state contended that the alien land law gives the state the right to prohibit the hospital enterprise.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs, in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo, and answer the first amended complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within said county, if served elsewhere within thirty days.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to so appear and answer, the plaintiffs will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint as arising upon contract, or will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

Witness my hand and the Seal of the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo, this 11th day of October, A. D. 1928.

Bank of Italy is helping to keep California "white"
on the Nation's business map.

NATIONAL SURVEYS each month show that, year after year, California continues to be a permanent "white spot" on the business map of the United States, due, in part, to the existence of proper and adequate banking service. The Bank of Italy—because of its great statewide organization, reaching every important agricultural, industrial and commercial center of the State—and its great fund of banking capital—has been able to give timely financial aid to every section of California. Great California industries—particularly fruit growing, agriculture, dairying and stockraising—have been financed and sustained during marketing periods by the state's largest bank. Bank of Italy will continue to aid in keeping the nation's "white spot" white.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Trees and Prosperity of Nation Are Linked

The economic structure upon which our nation is built is made of forest products, writes Charles Lathrop Pack in the Military Engineer. Just as wooden railroad ties marked the westward advance of civilization, so other products of the forests have kept pace with national growth, and made it possible. When we had to have more houses, down came the trees. We had to have more barns, schools and churches, down came the trees. We had to have farm implements, and wood for fuel, down came more trees. Coal was found and, strange as it may seem, there was a great demand for wood because it must be used in mining coal.

The annals of our country have been written across the pages of history because of trees, and the time has come to give thought to what the historian of the day will write about it 100 years from now. Every step of our onward march has been made possible because, and by means, of trees.

Winter Cold Comes!
Did you ever hear of a five-hour remedy for colds? There is one, and it really does bring you out of it completely. Even if it's gripe, this method works, only takes longer. Pape's Cold Compound is in tablet form. Pleasant-tasting, but it surely has the "authority!"—Adv.

Hot at Greenland Ranch.

In Death valley there is an artificial oasis, produced by irrigation. It is called Furnace Creek ranch, says Nature Magazine. Formerly it was called Greenland ranch, and the little government weather station established here some years ago is still known under the old name. On July 10, 1913, the official thermometer at Greenland ranch registered a shade temperature of 134 degrees Fahrenheit.

The RETURN of ANTHONY TRENT

by WYNDHAM MARTYN

"I don't think there'll be any need to," Trent returned. "I'm not a simple and reckless optimist. It means I know my man."

Had there been anyone to observe Trent as he telephoned to Mr. Hill a little after midnight, that rare quality—hesitancy—might have been noticed in one who was rarely in doubt and always quick to act. Mr. Hill's voice came back almost instantly.

"You've seen that diamond for the last time," said Mr. Hill.

"What do you mean?" Trent demanded.

"Simply that a cable was dispatched to his royal highness late this afternoon that a messenger was bringing the Nizam's diamond to him as fast as an airplane and the Mauretania could accomplish the trip. What you ask has been arranged and you'll have to be at my office tomorrow morning at ten. Good-by—and good luck to you both."

Victory! Trent walked to the hotel window and looked over the city now growing still. The same restless quiet was stealing over him. How curiously things worked out, he reflected. Life seemed a matter of adjustments, compromises, equations, logical and satisfying when one understood them.

The appointment at Mr. Hill's office, his interview with members of another department, and the final triumph caused him to lose the noon train.

Only a few minutes were left of the forty-eight hours when he entered his apartment. Mademoiselle Dupin, already dressed for going out, was waiting impatiently.

"You were just going?" he demanded, looking at the clock. "You wouldn't have given me five minutes' grace?"

"Mrs. Kinney has secured a position for me, and I have a train to catch."

"Sewing?" he asked.

"I am to teach French and music to some children. I have been very fortunate."

"From your point of view, perhaps. Mademoiselle Dupin, you can't go just yet; your class must wait. I have a great deal to talk about."

"But the train," she protested. "It is to Greenwich I go."

"Greenwich has an admirable train service; take another."

She could not understand his mood. Although his words were peremptory he was looking at her with a smile.

How, she wondered, passionately, could he smile at her when she was trying to go where she might be able to forget him?

"You are going to teach other people's children because you think that is the only way to obtain peace of mind. You won't succeed that way. You may change your place of abode. But you can't forget your dread of the police any more in Greenwich than you did in Deal Beach."

"I would rather do that than what you suggest," she said, her head held high. "If I were to take even a little stolen money my last chance of living honestly would be gone. I am even more sorry for you than for myself. I thought you were in earnest. You have so many talents that it is tragic that you should go back to that life."

"And so you won't shake hands when you leave me?"

"Monseigneur," she cried, "what use would that be? Our ways lie so far apart. I am resolved to work for what I need. It will not be easy, but I shall do it. It is possible I may starve, but I will not steal. Is there nothing I can say to influence you? You tell me you have lost your money. Well, it was generously spent, and I shall never be happy until I can pay you back what I have cost. You tell yourself that you will win a competence and then give up this life. That will bring you to ruin. It is the reef upon which you will be wrecked."

"I believe that, too," he said meditatively. "I wouldn't care to risk it again."

"But you will not need to," she said, with something of scorn in her voice, "you have the Nizam's diamond."

He smiled at her in the frank, boyish fashion she had seen in him only once or twice.

"I've lost it," he said.

"Lost it?" she repeated.

"Let us say exchanged it." His face became graver. "You must listen to me very carefully. Can you imagine that I, Anthony Trent, who has been what you know only too well, should have put all the Allied governments under obligations to me? It's true, nevertheless. What I did was of a nature so secret that it could not be published. I received no reward from my government. I wasn't officially thanked. The only thing that I got from it was the friendship of our ambassador to St. James' and a sort of promise that if ever I were in a tight place I had something to trade with. I never dared ask him just why he should imagine I might ever need such help. I've just come back from Washington, Mademoiselle Dupin."

"I do not see how that concerns me," she murmured.

"You will," he retorted. "The man I went to see was a cabinet officer. When I last knew him he was our ambassador to England. I reminded him of that veiled promise. I told him, frankly, I'd come to make a deal with him. I said I would give him back a certain historic diamond stolen from a visiting royalty several years ago if all the warrants against the woman who took it were quashed. He wanted to know how I could be sure that this woman would not do the same sort of thing again. He doubted if people of that sort could be relied upon."

"And what did you say?" Mademoiselle Dupin cried, eagerly.

"I told him I had put her to the supreme test and that she had come through."

"How do you mean—a test?" she exclaimed.

"My offer to have the diamond cut and share the proceeds with you."

"I am bewildered," she cried. "I cannot understand yet. If you spoke as you did to test me, then you have not gone back to the old life?"

"Never again," he told her.

"And I have doubted you. I am ashamed."

"You hadn't any alternative," he declared. "The main thing for you to understand is that the warrants against you have been quashed. The vast machinery that had set itself to enmesh you has been stopped. In the United States, at all events, you are free from arrest for what you did."

"Answer me this, please," she said anxiously. "Can you go to the cabinet officer if anything is discovered about you in future?"

"That," he said evasively, "will have to be considered when the time arrives."

She shook her head.

"I see it very clearly now," she said. "You have given me what would have saved you. How can I thank you for that? It is impossible. One thanks for the little courtesies of life. I am overwhelmed!"

She covered her face with her gloved hands. She was free. Through all the broad land there were no police empowered to recognize and arrest her.

"I haven't told you the truth, always," Anthony Trent said. "I have plenty of money. I'm not ruined in anything but hope."

She smiled for the first time, and there were tears in her eyes. The clock struck the hour.

"There goes my train to Greenwich," she said.

"Aren't you sorry to hear I am bankrupt?" he asked.

"But only of hope," she answered. "That is not serious. It springs eternal, one is told."

He smiled a little ruefully as he looked down at her.

"You don't even want to hear what hopes they are," he complained. "You are not making it easy."

"What hopes are they?" she said softly.

Suddenly he knelt by the side of her chair.

"Vera," he whispered, "I love you. It was because of that I had to put you to that test. Forgive me. Look at me, my dear, I cannot bear this silence."

"What would you have me say?" There was something caressing in her voice which set his heart beating madly. "That I love you? That I could say, gladly. But if I did, would you believe me?"

[THE END.]

Ink Blot Spelt Ruin for Engineering Firm

A big British engineering firm put in a bid for building a great bridge for a foreign government. The head of the business spent six months in getting out plans. His bid was accepted, the material bought in great quantities, men engaged, and machinery built.

A time limit was set for the commencement and finish of the bridge and one day the chief was sitting at his desk perfecting his plans and making sure of the smallest details when he accidentally upset an inkpot and drowned his most important papers in a black sea.

In a fever of anxiety he tried to reconstruct his plans from stray notes. It was impossible, and he then cubed the foreign government begging for more time. This was refused and the contract repudiated. The loss drove the firm into bankruptcy.

SUBSTANTIAL SALADS

A salad which contains cheese, meat, fowl or fish is usually sufficiently satisfying to make a main dish for a meal.

Chicken Salad.—Make one-half cupful of French dressing, add one-fourth cupful of Roquefort cheese to the dressing, add a dash of cayenne and one hard-cooked egg yolk, rice. Arrange nests of lettuce on serving plates. Place a spoonful of diced chicken and celery in the center and pour the dressing over all. Garnish with a ring or two hard-cooked egg white and a strip of pimento.

Harlequin Salad.—Take one and one-fourth cupfuls of chopped tongue or ham, one cupful of cooked lima beans and three hard-cooked eggs cut into eighths and one-fourth cupful of chopped gherkins. Cover with French dressing and marinate for at least one hour in a cold place. Heap on a nest of crisp lettuce and garnish with thick sliced tomato. Serve with:

Sour Cream Salad Dressing.—Combine one teaspoonful each of mustard and sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a bit of pepper. Beat one egg and add one-half cupful of milk and stir into the dry ingredients very gradually. Cook, stirring until the mixture coats the spoon, add one-third of a cupful of hot vinegar and one tablespoonful of butter, cool and add one-half cupful of sour cream. Pour over the salad and serve.

Mixed Vegetable Salad.—Take one cupful of shredded string beans, the same of peas, shredded cucumber and one-half cupful of thinly sliced radishes. Add French dressing and stand one-half hour to marinate. Halve six hard-cooked eggs lengthwise, cut off ends so that they stand upright and dip each into tart lemon jelly which is cold but not yet set; have the salad plates very cold and arrange the egg halves in a circle. They should stick at once if the jelly is right. Fill in with the vegetable mixture, top with lettuce heart and garnish with radish roses. Pass the mayonnaise.

Piquante Fish Salad.—Take two cupfuls of flaked cooked halibut, one-half cupful of shredded radishes, three-fourths cupful of diced celery. Mix lightly and add French dressing to moisten. Arrange on a bed of lettuce, sprinkle with one-fourth of a cupful of capers and a dash of paprika. Serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Chestnut Time.

This delicious nut should occupy a larger place on our tables, for it lends itself in so many ways in cookery.

Cooked chestnuts with apple and celery, as a Waldorf salad, adding a few other nuts for flavor, make a most tasty salad that nearly everybody likes.

Chestnut Soup.—Take five or six dozen good chestnuts, shell and blanch, then simmer them in chicken stock or any good broth. When tender rub the chestnuts through a coarse sieve. Add to the stock with seasoning a well-beaten egg or two and a little cream or milk with butter to add richness. Serve with croutons. French cooks often brown the nuts before cooking them in the stock; this adds a rich flavor as well as color to the soup.

Chestnut Stuffing.—Take three cupfuls of large French chestnuts, shell and blanch. Cook in boiling salted water until soft, then mash, using a potato ricer. Add butter, salt, pepper and cream, using one-half cupful of butter and one-fourth cupful of cream. Use one-fourth cupful of butter in the chestnuts and one-fourth cupful to mix with one cupful of cracker crumbs; combine mixtures and use as stuffing.

Chestnut Sauce to Serve With Turkey.—To three tablespoonfuls of fat left in the roasting pan add two tablespoonfuls of flour; stir, scraping the pan to remove every bit of the glaze. Pour into this one cupful of the potato water left when draining the potatoes, as this is rich in mineral salts; stir and cook until thick, season with salt and pepper and add a pint of mashed, cooked chestnuts, with a teaspoonful of chili sauce. Pour into a sauceboat and serve with the turkey.

Chestnut Custard.—To one cupful of chestnut pulp, add the yolks of three eggs, one beaten white, one cupful of rich milk, sugar and flavoring to taste. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake slowly. Make a meringue with the unused whites well beaten and two tablespoonfuls of sugar; spread over the custard and brown in the oven.

Cooked chestnuts dropped into a lemon sirup and cooked until thick then sealed make a delicious conserve to use with frozen dishes or as a garnish for desserts.

Any Woman Can Look Stylish

By MAE MARTIN

Most stylish-looking women are just "good managers." They know simple ways to make last season's things conform to this season's styles.

Thousands of them have learned how easily they can transform a dress, or blouse, or coat by the quick magic of home tinting or dyeing. Anyone can do this successfully with true, fadeless Diamond Dyes. The "know-how" is in the dyes. They don't streak or spot like inferior dyes. New, fashionable tints appear like magic right over the out-of-style or faded colors. Only Diamond Dyes produce perfect results. Insist on them and save disappointment.

My new 64-page illustrated book, "Color Craft," gives hundreds of money-saving hints for renewing clothes and draperies. It's Free. Write for it now, to Mae Martin, Dept. E-143, Diamond Dyes, Burlington, Vermont.

World's Illiterates.

Dr. J. F. Abel, a specialist of the bureau of education, says that 82.5 per cent of all the world's inhabitants, despite the educational progress of the last two or three centuries, are still illiterate. Doctor Abel calculates that the world's population now is 1,820,000,000. Of these 455,000,000 are deducted on the ground that people under ten years of age are illiterate. This leaves 1,365,000,000 above the age of ten, of whom Doctor Abel finds that about 850,000,000 are illiterates.

Girl at the Top in Health Test

Millions of boys and girls all over the world, thousands of them right here in the West are being restored to health and strength by the purely vegetable tonic and laxative known as California Fig Syrup and endorsed by physicians for over 50 years.

Children need no urging to take it. They love its rich, fruity flavor. Nothing can compete with it as a gentle, but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so these organs continue to act normally, of their own accord. It stimulates the appetite, helps digestion.

A Kansas mother, Mrs. Dana Allgire, 610 Monroe St., Topeka, says: "Bonnie B. is absolutely the picture of health, now, with her ruddy cheeks, bright eyes and plump but graceful little body and she stands at the top in every health test."

Much of the credit for her perfect condition is due to California Fig Syrup. We have used it since babyhood to keep her bowels active during colds or any children's ailments and she has always had an easy time with them. She always responds to its gentle urging and is quickly back to normal."

Ask your druggist for California Fig Syrup and look for the word "California" on the carton so you'll always get the genuine.

They Surely Have.

"Times have changed," said the first dad.

"I'll tell the world they have," replied the other; "just think of being able to ask your daughter for a light."

This is the age when readers don't read beyond the third chapter if they don't like the novel.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

AMERICANISM DEFINED

The word "Americanism" is used very frequently, but the average person would doubtless find some difficulty in defining it satisfactorily.

Broadly speaking, it is understood to mean an appreciation of and loyalty to America and its institutions. But it means more than a mere passive acceptance of the benefits which are derived from citizenship.

Probably no class of citizens are better qualified to define Americanism than the veterans of the wars which have been waged to defend it. Such a definition was adopted some time ago by the commanders-in-chief of five leading veterans' organizations, as follows:

"Americanism is an unflinching love of country; loyalty to its institutions and ideals; eagerness to defend it against all enemies; undivided allegiance to the flag, and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and posterity."

Persons who can qualify under that definition are truly Americans, whether native-born or naturalized.

STILL MORE SPEED

If a recent press dispatch is accurate, the airplane speed record of 318 miles an hour, set by Major Bernadri of Italy last March, may soon be officially smashed by a wide margin.

From England comes word that Lieutenant Grieg in an unofficial try-out attained a speed estimated at 345 miles an hour. Possibly before this is in print he may have made a new official record.

The average person can not imagine what it would mean to shoot through space at the rate of between five and six miles a minute, and most of us have little curiosity to find out. Still, we naturally have a certain admiration for those adventurous spirits who do such things.

No matter how dangerous a stunt may be, there are always some to be found who have the courage or foolhardiness to try it. But it is difficult for conservative mortals to understand how they get that way.

Governor Lowden recommends physical exercise and ample sleep as aids to longevity. We are willing to try the sleep as a beginning.

EDDIE'S ADVERSHOW

OBSERVE GOLDEN RULE SUNDAY

By no one is the spirit of the Golden Rule better understood than by the orphan children of the Near East. They are always eager to give in their turn.

On Golden Rule Sunday each year the Near East Relief orphanages observe the day, sacrificing their meat or a full meal, and contributing the savings to some need. Last year the children on the Island of Syra and at the Kephissia Street orphanage in Athens ate only bread on Golden Rule Sunday and saved enough money to finance for a year a day nursery in one of the refugee camps. They repeated the sacrifice at the time of the Corinth earthquakes and contributed toward the maintenance of a feeding station for 500 baby sufferers.

Perhaps the most touching of all the sacrifices was that of a group of orphan boys in Jerusalem. By scrimping and saving out of their first small wages, they sent $65 to help certain Americans who, they heard, were in distress. To the Near East Relief director to whom they intrusted the money for transportation they said: "America helped us when we were in distress. We have heard about the Mississippi and Vermont floods and want to help in our turn." The money was sent to the Red Cross in Washington, whose acknowledging letter expressed full appreciation of what the gift meant in love and gratitude and sacrifice.

Golden Rule Sunday will be observed this year on December 2, and all loyal Americans are urged to observe the day in a proper manner.

BUILDERS VS. DESTROYERS

In every community, in every state and in the nation at large, we have builders and we have destroyers. In between we have a large class which does nothing actively in either direction.

It would seem that the less active element would at least lend its moral support to the builders, but unfortunately this is not always the case, particularly when the destroyers by noisy clamor and misrepresentation seek to discredit the constructive work the builders are trying to do.

The builder is always under fire. No matter how much he may give of time, money and effort to the up-building of his community and state, the destroyers are on his trail with a magnifying glass seeking to discover sinister and selfish motives. Being incapable of constructive effort themselves, they must be content with tearing down.

But the builder does not stop on that account. The very spirit which makes him a builder also makes him indifferent to attacks which are as futile as they are unjust. He knows that in the long run he will win, regardless of temporary misunderstandings and abuse, because the knockers will finally hang themselves if given sufficient rope.

FEEDING PREJUDICES

When one stops to think of it, most of us who boast of being broadminded are anything but that. Otherwise, how can we account for the fact that we are seldom interested in reading "the other side" of any question.

We read almost exclusively such books, periodicals and newspapers as we know in advance will generally coincide with our own views. Few Republicans subscribe for a red-hot Democratic newspaper, or vice versa. People take church papers only of their own denomination. Capitalists take few labor papers, and laboring men would hardly look at one that reflects the capitalistic viewpoint.

In other words, we all have our more or less confirmed opinions on nearly every important subject and do not admit that there may be some virtue in the contentions of those who take an opposite view.

As a recent writer has said, "The only facts we can tolerate are those we already know." We read, not to really learn something new, but for the purpose of confirming ourselves in our present beliefs and prejudices.

AN UNSEEN DANGER

With the approach of the winter season, the usual fatalities from deadly carbon monoxide may be expected, unless motorists heed warnings against starting their motors in closed garages.

So many deaths have been caused by this poisonous gas that the U. S. Bureau of Mines has produced a motion picture to illustrate its dangers. Besides showing how one may be overcome by carbon monoxide, the picture displays these warnings: "Never run the engine in a closed garage;" "Keep the doors wide open;" "Never get under the car while the engine runs;" "Never sleep in a room with a gas appliance burning."

Carbon monoxide is an odorless and therefore insidious gas, which paralyzes its victim almost before he is aware of its presence, and is fatal unless respiration and a supply of oxygen is immediately applied.

MOVIE-RADIO EDUCATION

In the school of the future, motion pictures and radio will largely supplant text-books, according to the belief of William L. Bodine, a Chicago educational authority.

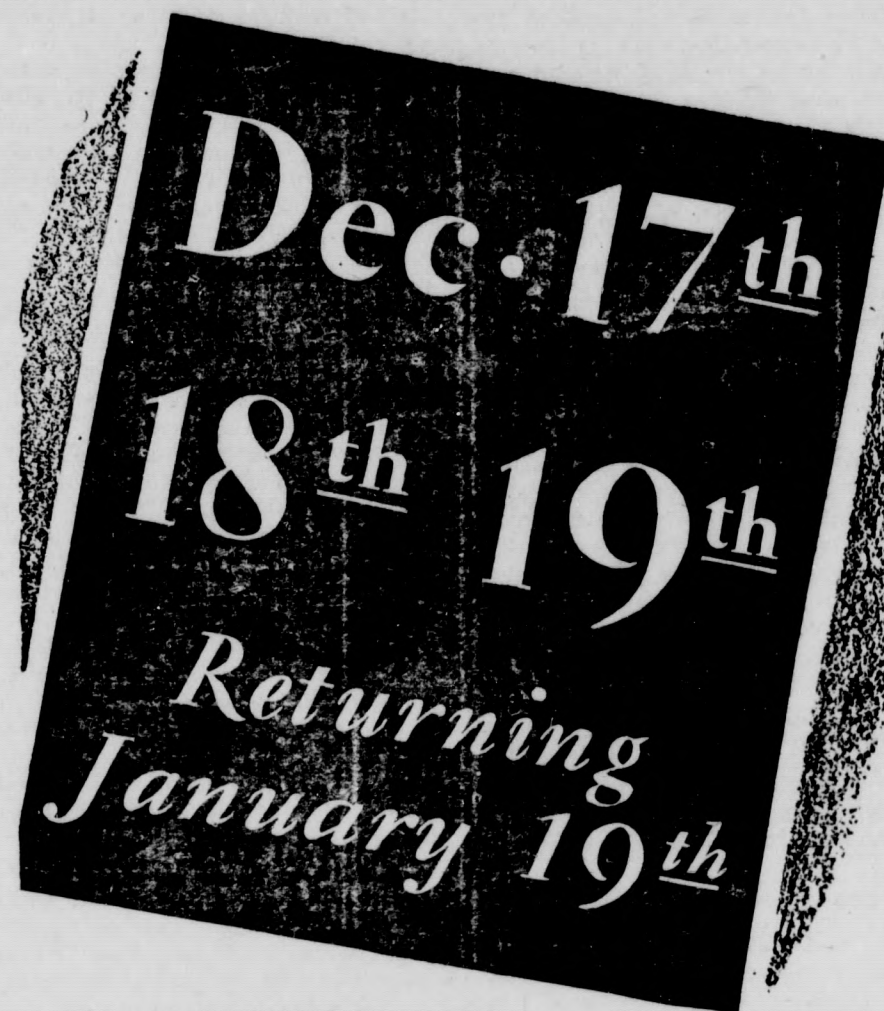

It is true that in many subjects visual education has great value in supplementing that supplied by the text-books, and the same may be said of radio. It may be doubted, however, that these can ever be used as the sole means of instruction in any important studies.

Youngsters would no doubt be very much delighted if they could be enabled to master their algebra and Latin through these pleasing agencies.

Some radio stations were discontinued on Armistice day. Some others should be made to declare a truce.

A French educator opposes the study of mathematics by children under ten. Youngsters would approve that.

What puzzles us is how Hoover got elected after promising to call an extra session of Congress.

Homes... Are the Bulwark of Daly City's Prosperity

We are proud of the part we have played in the furnishing of materials for the building of Daly City homes and business structures.

Our new Daly City Theatre is sturdily built of lumber and building materials furnished by the H. H. Smith Lumber Yard.

The Daly City Theatre is a symbol of civic prosperity, just as the homes of Daly City are indicators of individual prosperity. By assisting in the building of these homes and such business edifices for community welfare as this Theatre, we feel that we are helping Daly City grow.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

A warning to the public against promiscuous cutting of Christmas trees on any mountain land without first securing the consent of the owner was issued a few days ago by State Forester M. B. Pratt. A campaign against trespassers is now being prepared, Pratt said. The department will have a special force of men at work to see that the law is enforced, Pratt said.

Though the state administration probably will not sponsor aviation legislation of its own this winter, it will favor enactment of a strong regulatory law, Alexander R. Heron, state director of finance, indicated recently. Heron said he personally favored licensing of planes, air fields, flying schools and pilots.

Out of every twelve of the 6000 children cared for in state institutions one is a whole orphan, with neither father nor mother; five are half-orphans and six have both parents living, the Department of Social Welfare reported last week. Seven out of twelve were entered by their parents, three were placed through the juvenile court, one through a social agency and one by relatives or friends. The average length of time children remain in the orphanages is less than two years.

Telling of the work done by the various committees of the California State Development Association, and outlining valuable statistics, a series of committee reports were made public by the organization recently. Forest fires on national reserves in California during 1928 burned over 631,918 acres and cost $639,889 to suppress, according to the report of the conservation committee of the association. Edward W. Murphy, chairman of the conservation committee, declared there were 1467 fires in the national forest, and in the entire state there was a total of 2000 fires, destroying a million acres and costing $1,000,000 to check.

Labor law amendments under which the eight hour working day for women would be made to apply to all female state employees are to be introduced at the January session of the Legislature. Will J. French, state director of industrial relations, so advised Governor Young and his cabinet last week, declaring that private interests are now making investigations looking toward introduction of the measure.

California's busy job has been securing jobs for the jobless, a total of 17,858 jobs being found during the past month, according to the State Department of Industrial Relations. About five men to one woman are looking for work, labor statistics show. The positions filled during October indicate 14,495 men were procured employment, while only 3363 women were found jobs. Los Angeles led in placement, with 6318 men and women, San Francisco following, with 3318, and Oakland third, with 2482.

Legislative battle lines on the question of California's "gin-marriage" law already are being formed, with the prospect of a drive for its repeal at the winter session. Fred B. Wood, State legislative counsel, announced last week that he is framing a repeal measure at the request of Assemblyman H. E. Dillinger of Placerville. And Senator-elect George W. Rochester of Los Angeles, author of the "gin-marriage" statute while a member of the 1927 Assembly, is expected to wage a stiff fight for its retention.

With the arrest of Cal Young, P. Reed, William Coleman and Eugene Lyttle, State, Federal and county authorities last week expressed belief they have checked counterfeiting operations in this State in which spurious $10 and $20 bills have been circulated. The four men were apprehended during a raid on a North Sacramento residence where an alleged counterfeiting die, inks and other paraphernalia were confiscated. The announcement said grand jury indictments will be sought.

Canned sardine exports from San Francisco during the nine months' period this year ending October 1, were 342,195 pounds greater than the same period last year, but California canners received less for their pack, a department of commerce bulletin announces. Figures announced were: 1927, 26,120,895 pounds worth $2,320,063, and 1928, 26,462,980 pounds worth $2,204,825. The drop in price is attributed to intense foreign competition and to the fact that for the first time in several years the supply of California sardines during this period exceeded the demand.

Governor Young doesn't like careless, wild, inefficient automobile drivers. "And he and Alexander R. Heron have outlined a complete and comprehensive plan which they believe will do much to curb the present evils due in part to reckless or inexperienced operators of automobiles. It is a program that will take about two years to complete, the governor said last week, but at the end of that period every person who ought to undergo an examination before a license to drive is issued will have a thorough test.

The First Thanksgiving

The haze of a November morning set a softness upon the hills and mellowed the bright colors of the falling leaves as it called every man and woman and child out into their dooryards with the joy of living high within them.

Most of the Colonists, having been farmers in the north of England, now betook themselves to the custom of that section of the country in celebrating the bringing in of the last harvest sheaf. First a wicker basket was carried into the common house, and festooned with many colored ribbons, as gay in its festival array as the people who gathered round it.

When the basket was in readiness two maidens, lifted it from the ground, holding it between them while the Colonists fell in two by two behind them. For a moment there was silence, then there arose in full song that stirring procession, "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof, the world and they that dwell therein."

Sang as They Marched.

As they marched, they sang, filling the clearing with music. From the path the procession turned into the

Spread the Bright Board

Spread the bright board;
Let many candles shine;
Bring in the ruddy board
Of tree and vine.
Let flock and field
Their fairest fruits provide
And yield
Choice viands for our harvest tide.

But let no neighboring table empty be,
Lest our own feast become a mockery.

Welcome each guest;
Let hand clasp friendly hand
With all the rest
Of those who understand
The time is meet
For love's ingathering,
And friendship is a sweet
And gracious thing.

But let no lonely soul shiver without,
Lest our gay comradeship grow dim with doubt.

Crown love
With music; let the singing strings
Awaken echoes of Forgotten things.

For song and laughter free,
Rhythm and rhyme
And merry minstrelsy.

corn field. Coming to where the corn was on the stalk, the two maidens stopped, setting the basket upon the ground. Again there was silence and all stood still until the thankfulness of the people broke forth in singing.

's the notes of the psalm began, the two maidens each plucked a stick, dropping it in the basket, then stood aside that those who followed might pluck and deposit their corn. So they sang, while each one harvested his corn, dropping it in the wicker basket, until the last ear had been gathered.

The burden of the full basket being past the strength of the maidens, two men came forth and gravely raised the basket between them. With quickened step the procession marched back, through the field and down the path to the granary, singing a song of thankfulness.

Having finished the marching song,

Governor Bradford bade all kneel in a half circle around the front of the granary. The elder sent up a petition of thanksgiving for the riches of the earth, forest, and sea which had been bountifully poured on the people.

Simple Ceremony.

When the elder ceased, one of the maidens approached the granary, unfastening and throwing open its door. Governor Bradford promptly came forward and plucking a stick from the basket, threw it into the grain-house. So one by one those who gathered the corn took up a stick and threw it into the granary until only two sticks were left. Priscilla, blushing sweetly, gently dropped one of these in the storehouse.

The second maiden now stood forth, holding the last stick of corn. With her head thrown back and singing words of praise, she dropped the last sheaf of harvest into the granary, closed the door, locked it and carried the key to the governor.

When this simple ceremony had been completed, all stood with bowed heads as again they sang, "The Lord shall preserve thy going out, and thy coming in from this time forth and forevermore."

It was garnered the first harvest from the field of the great clearing, and safely housed amid the songs of praise of the people. One of the maidens who carried the basket was Priscilla, and one of the men who took it back was John Alden.

A Picture

Each of us has, I think, in his mind's eye a masterpiece—his own particular picture of that first and famous Thanksgiving. . . . Mine is an exquisite etching—perfect in black and white. . . . There are inkly outlines of trees on a flawless background of snow. . . . But there is only a sound for the sea—high waves beating white on dark rocks that guard a coast. . . . There are sinister shadows creeping. . . . and here a feathered headdress limns black when the moon is bright. . . . There are profiled Puritan faces, sharp and white in their hunger, with the cut of delicate canes against the dark of their cloaks. . . . Here—and touching a prayer book—is the fragile hand of a girl, and there a man's thin cheek along a dark gun barrel. . . . The blessing that prefaced their dinner was a white grace over them all, and their bread was there for the blackness and the meat of a wild turkey hen. . . . Too austere for your picture taste? But it is framed in the soft gray of time. . . . And my etching is lovelier far than your colored Thanksgiving today. . . .

Ennobling Thought

The mere act of giving thanks tends to make the thanksgiver happy; indicates a noble nature; lends dignity and beauty to our work; points to mental development, since the one who thinks, thanks; puts one outside himself; is an aid to unselfishness; increases our capacity to receive God's blessings; enables us to endure affliction and to be great in adversity; keeps alive the spiritual sense. There is no greater reason for gratitude than the fact that the nation stops to give thanks.—Exchange.

Prosperity to Share

Rich in harvests so abundant and in industries so productive that the overflow of our prosperity has advanced the whole world, strong in the steadfast conservation of the heritage of self-government bequeathed to us by the wisdom of our fathers, and firm in the resolve to transmit that heritage unimpaired, but rather improved by good use, to our children and our children's children for all time to come, the people of this country have abundant cause for contented gratitude.—William H. Taft.

MAKES DRIBBLE MORE DIFFICULT

New Basket Ball Rules Have Much to Say on Subject.

Although not going so far as to restrict the dribble to a single bounce, an action which was taken last year and then rescinded after a storm of controversy, the new basket ball rules announced for 1928-29 have considerable to say about regulating this spectacular feature of the game.

A new clause is added (rule 15, section 9, under the head of personal fouls) which reads:

"A player shall not hold, trip, charge or push an opponent whether or not either player has possession of the ball. If a dribbler charges into an opponent, or makes personal contact with an opponent without an apparent effort to avoid such contact, a personal foul shall be called on the dribbler.

"If, despite the dribbler's effort to avoid contact, personal contact ensues, either player, or both, may be guilty; but the greater responsibility is on the dribbler if he tries to dribble past an opponent who is in his path."

This is designed to "emphasize the responsibility of the dribbler in connection with the fouls resulting from the dribble," says Oswald Tower, Andover, Mass., official interpreter of the rules.

"Most of those who advocate restriction of the dribble," he comments, "think that the dribble is used too much or that it is impossible to check satisfactorily the many fouls resulting from its use. The former is a matter of coaching; the latter is a problem for the rules and officials to solve.

"If the dribbler's path is blocked, he is expected to pass or shoot; that is, he ought not to try to dribble past an opponent unless there is a reasonable chance of getting by without contact. More attention than hitherto is to be directed to the dribbler's responsibility."

Copper Is Wildcat

Bill Calderwood, right halfback on Northwestern's eleven, got a leave of absence from the Evanston police force so that he could chase touchdowns for the Purple instead of criminals for the city. After the gridiron season he will return to his regular eight-hour beat daily.

There are several ex-Wildcats doing duty on the same police force just now. In uniform are Herman "Duke" Cohen, guard in 1924; Benny Froelich, halfback in 1925 and 1926, and Jack Ritchie, varsity end last year.

Court Rules Boxing Is Unlawful in Delaware

Boxing contests are illegal in Delaware. The state court sitting en banc so ruled in refusing to quash an indictment against Dr. Rogers M. Gregory, president of the 40 and 8 club of the American Legion at Wilmington, charging him with violating the state law against prize fights.

The decision is looked upon as the death knell of boxing in that state until a state boxing law is passed. There is no appeal from the decision.

Doctor Gregory was indicted last winter after a number of ministers had complained he was violating the state laws in conducting boxing shows at the Auditorium club there. Following the decision State Attorney-General Clarence Southerland announced the indictment against Doctor Gregory would be dropped, as the suit was considered merely as a test case.

All boxing promoters operating in the state were ordered notified of the ruling. The decision thus will stop boxing contests at Shellpot park at Wilmington, at Laurel and Milford and other cities in the state where boxing has flourished for a number of months.

Big Gridders

Two Maroon linemen, "Buck" Weaver, who scales 235 pounds, and Max Sonderby, a big tackle, wear size 8½ helmets. That size headgear would make a good first aid stretcher for any ordinary football player. A composite good mammoth would probably wear a size 20 shoe, trousers with a 40 waist, glasses with a focus that would bring an object three centimeters in diameter two miles away within ordinary vision, and a collar size 1½. And both are fast on their feet.

Phone Message Recorded.

The use of the telephone in giving orders and directions in industrial establishments has, in many cases, been discouraged, for, in case of mistake, it always leaves open a question of veracity and one which cannot well be settled if it is desirable to place the responsibility. This has been overcome recently by the invention of a wax disk recorder attached to the instrument, which makes a permanent record of all the conversations which take place.

Colma News Notes

Mrs. E. Woolsey and son Oscar, of Tracy, were house guests over last week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Greene.

The Scramaglia family, who have all been suffering from severe colds, are now on the road to recovery and able to be out again.

Ed Bocci, who was seriously ill with pneumonia at Mills Memorial hospital, is now fully recovered and his many friends are pleased to see him around again.

L. P. Garat has severed his connections with the Pacific Fruit and Produce Company in San Francisco and Colma, and is now in Los Angeles looking over the field there.

Cypress Circle, Order of Druids, will hold a whist party on next Wednesday evening at Colma Community Center. Score cards will be 25 cents. All attending are assured a pleasant evening.

Mrs. C. W. Wardwell, Mrs. George Wright and Miss Irene Bianchi spent a very pleasant afternoon on last Wednesday visiting the Legion of Honor War Memorial in Lincoln Park, San Francisco.

The big "gamble dance" held last Friday evening by the San Francisco Girls' Club in Native Sons Hall was a financial as well as a social success. Many girls of Colma are interested in this club and attended the dance.

Colma was well represented at the whist party given on last Friday evening by the Girls' Club of Capp Street. All report having a wonderful time. In January another of these famous parties will take place, and is being looked forward to with much pleasure.

Several members and friends of Cypress Circle, Order of Druids, of Colma attended the public installation of the officers of Golden Poppie Circle, of Ocean View, at Eagles Hall, Daly City, last Saturday evening. After the installation ceremonies, refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed, the music being provided by a four piece orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nava entertained a group of relatives and friends at dinner last Sunday, having as their guests Mr. and Mrs. J. Degliantoni, Mr. and Mrs. John Clervi, Miss E. Grandona and Mr. Charles Godel.

Mrs. Josephine Greene and Miss Lillian Collier extend an invitation to all who enjoy dancing to attend the social dance to be given next Tuesday evening in Castle Hall. A pleasant evening is assured all those who attend. There is no admission charge; just come and have a good time.

M. J. Siggins of the Pacific Fruit and Produce Company returned the first of this week from Oregon, where he has been purchasing seed potatoes for the company. Mr. and Mrs. Siggins and family made the trip north by boat, taking their machine along with them, and greatly enjoyed the trip home by motor through the recent snow. Mr. Siggins reports the Oregon potato crop only about 50 per cent normal.

The morning passenger and express train between Third street, San Francisco and San Bruno, that ran through Colma has been discontinued indefinitely. The merchandise, freight and express is now being handled by truck. This action has been found necessary on account of the work now under way for the Bernal cut and boulevard which is being constructed by the city of San Francisco and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Albert Giovacchini, who formerly made his home in Colma with his family for many years, and who has been working for the Standard Oil Company at Huntington Beach, was so seriously injured last Saturday while at work that he passed away early Sunday morning without regaining consciousness. He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Mamie Tuohy, three small children, and a sister, Mrs. E. Biagini, of Colma, to mourn his loss.

PLAYS TO SUIT ALL TASTES AT THE STATE THEATRE

The New State Theatre, at Mission and Oliver streets, has booked plays to suit all tastes for the coming week. This Saturday there will be two splendid feature pictures, Rex Bell in "Wild West Romance," and Lois Wilson and H. B. Warner in "French Dressing."

On Sunday the two feature pictures will be Ted McNamara and Sammy Cohen in "Why Sailors Go Wrong," and "Beyond London Lights."

On Monday and Tuesday, November 26 and 27, the State will present that famous picture "Rose Marie," in which Joan Crawford and House Peters are featured.

Esther Ralston in "Love and Learn" will be the attraction on Wednesday, November 28, in addition to other features.

Fred Thomson in "Kit Carson" and other features will make up the bill for Thursday, while on Friday, the popular Eddie's Advershow and "The Desired Woman," in which William Collier, Jr., and Irene Rich have the leading roles, will make up a most entertaining program.

LICENSE PLATE ISSUANCE STARTS DECEMBER 15

Along with Christmas shopping this year, two million California motorists may make a present of new 1929 automobile license plates to their car. The distribution of new numeral plates starts December 15 and while car owners have until the end of January to attend to registration, motorists are advised to "shop early and avoid the rush."

The 1929 numeral plates are larger and of heavier metal and consists of a black background with orange figures. The numbering system is changed by the interjection of letters to keep the numbers within six figures or less, somewhat similar to the New York license plate.

This is the second year that the State Division of Motor Vehicles has arranged for a two weeks longer registration period by starting earlier in order to accomplish the tremendous task of verifying records and issuing plates for close to two million motor vehicles in a comparatively short period.

SAFETY LESSON WARNS OF GARAGE ENTRANCE

"Sidewalk grade crossings" constitute a hazard in the daily play of thousands of children, particularly as the season of new toys approaches. "Sidewalk grade crossings" are the driveways leading to public or private garages and the menace to youngsters of cars backing out such driveways is emphasized in the school safety lesson for this month distributed to classrooms throughout Northern and Central California by the Public Safety Department of the California State Automobile Association. More than twelve thousand copies of a poster that is particularly appropriate to the holiday season, when new coasters, scooters and other toy vehicles make their appearance, have been distributed to schools by the motorists' organization. The poster illustrates the hazard of children playing around garage driveways and is accompanied by a suggested talk by teachers which reads as follows:

"Millions of dollars are being spent annually in these United States to eliminate railroad grade crossings. These large expenditures of money are necessary because experience has shown that every grade crossing, even though open to view and protected by signs and signal devices, is a potential source of danger to motorists. "Driveways leading into public or private garages are 'sidewalk grade crossings' and are even more dangerous than highway grade crossings because of their greater number and the absence of warning devices. Many entrances to public and private garages are so constructed that the motorist must back his car up an incline in order to reach the street. Obviously he has difficulty in seeing that the way is clear and the pedestrian in hearing the horn of his car when blown inside the garage. Particularly is it difficult for the motorists to anticipate that a child riding a coaster or scooter, or running in play, is behind his car just as he backs the machine out. He may have looked back and found the way clear just a moment before. He may even have been careless, some motorists are, and failed to have looked back at all. The result, however, is the same.

"In riding your scooter or coaster, in playing or just walking on the sidewalk 'play safe' when you find an open garage door. Think of an open garage door or a driveway obstructed from your view by a hedge, shrubbery, fence or building as a 'blind grade crossing.' Do what the 'safe motorists' does on the highway at such crossings—'Stop, Look, Listen.' It takes but a minute and proves you are alert to danger and therefore an intelligent boy or girl."

"FALLEN ANGELS" PRESENTED AT COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE

"Fallen Angels," now in its third week at the Community Playhouse, has developed into the biggest success of the season for the Players Guild. This is the third production of the year, and as was the case with other Noel Coward plays, their public has rallied with enthusiasm to see the play.

One of the principal reasons for the success of "Fallen Angels" is the presence of the co-stars Sarah Padden and Charlotte Walker in the leading roles of the play. Both of these talented actresses have followings in San Francisco and both are seen to splendid advantage.

This marks Miss Padden's initial venture into comedy. Hitherto she has been principally identified with heavy sordid drama as exemplified by "The Clod" on the Orpheum circuit and "The Heaven Tappers" and "The Shame Woman," which she played in San Francisco at the legitimate theatres.

Charlotte Walker is somewhat more familiar with the field of comedy, although her work has extended principally into the heavier romantic type of comedy drama.

Others in the cast of "Fallen Angels" are James Coleman, Herbert Heyes, Houghton Furlong and Frances Anderson. The production is directed by Reginald Travers and the engagement at the Sutter and Mason street theater is limited because of future bookings.

PIONEER PESCADERO WOMAN PASSES AT THE AGE OF 98

Mrs. Mary E. A. McCormick, one of the oldest pioneers of San Mateo county, widow of the late John McCormick, one of the county pioneer ranchers, died last Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Frey, in Pescadero, where she had been ill for the past three weeks.

For more than sixty years, Mrs. McCormick, who would have been 98 years old on last Wednesday, had lived in the Pescadero district, arriving when the community was largely a Spanish settlement. Her charities and church work throughout the community were notable and had endeared her to a large circle of friends.

Mrs. Pruda Ann Goins died recently at Princeton, Mo., at the age of 107, after an illness of only one week. Her father lived to be 105 years old.

GRAIN FIRES CAUSE LOSS OF $1,500,000

In an effort to forestall a recurrence of the disastrous grain fires that swept northern counties this summer, causing an estimated loss of approximately $1,500,000, State Forester M. B. Pratt has announced that an amendment of the county fire district act will be sought at the forthcoming session of the legislature to bring the local fire districts under supervision of the State Division of Forestry.

This proposed legislation, in addition to providing for state co-operation with the local districts, will have a beneficial effect in the fixing of insurance rates on grain and other farm property, Pratt declared. The insurance companies, he said, have agreed to adjust their rates if assured that adequate fire protection, under state supervision, is provided.

By this time some of the candidates may have come to realize that they talked too much.

Al had hard luck, but Trade and Mark are still going strong.

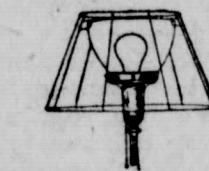

25% of our school children have defective eyesight—caused, chiefly, by poor lighting

What are you doing to correct this condition in your home?

Most homes have beautiful lamps, but they give poor light.

The best lighting is that which is nearest to ordinary daylight—sufficient light without glare, evenly distributed throughout the room.

The lamp illustrated here meets these requirements. It doesn't hurt the eyes. It improves the colors of furniture and draperies. Friends love to linger in the soft, complimentary light.

The shade rests on closed top of glass globe which surrounds lamp and diffuses raw light.

The lamps (both floor and table) have an opal glass reflector under the shade that diffuses the light. They come with a selection of silk and parchment shades. But you can never know how it improves vision and the appearance of the room until you try one. We'll gladly loan you one for a trial. Phone or drop us a card. A modern ceiling unit is also illustrated here.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Coon, of Mission street, are receiving the congratulations of their many friends upon the birth of a little son, born at St. Luke's hospital on Tuesday of last week. This is the fourth son in the family, and the happy parents have named him Jack Ronald Coon.

Mrs. A. Marconi, of Templeton avenue, entertained at a surprise birthday party at her new home last Saturday evening, in honor of Mr. Marconi. Over fifty of their friends were present to enjoy the evening. The lower floor was beautifully decorated with paper streamers, and dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening. At midnight a buffet supper was served. Several of Mr. Marconi's friends presented him with a beautiful smoking stand.

Mrs. George Seach, of Bellevue avenue, entertained a group of little girls on last Tuesday afternoon in honor of little Miss Muriel Miller, who celebrated her fifth birthday. The afternoon was spent playing games, after which refreshments were served by the hostess. The table was prettily decorated in blue and yellow crepe paper, with favors and hats to match. Muriel received many lovely gifts. The guests were Sylvia Hendricksen, Helen Hass, Marjorie Eldridge, Bettie Jean Seach and Charlotte Miller.

Members of Company No. 2, Daly City Volunteer Fire Department, held a drill, followed by a dinner, last Wednesday evening, a splendid time being enjoyed by all who were fortunate enough to be present. The menu consisted of roast beef and salads, sweet pickles, three kinds of cake, ice cream, ginger ale and hot coffee. Later in the evening a number of the members of Company No. 1 dropped in on their fellow firemen, and a few splendid short addresses were made, after which cigars and cigarettes were served.

An interesting snooker contest, held at S. Eldrup's billiard parlor, at the top of the hill, in which a number of local snooker enthusiasts took part, came to a close last Wednesday night, and when the final game had been played it was found that Julius Oyhanachabal had outplayed his opponents, coming in first. Others who participated in the contest, and made a good showing, were Victor White, Clifford Curry, William Fell, Norman Miller, William Miller, Emil Pederson and Benny Tomei.

The Associated Firemen of San Mateo County will hold their third annual dance at Pacific City Auditorium on Saturday evening, December 8. Art Weidner's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing. The admission price will be $1.00, and ladies will be admitted free. Tickets can be obtained from any Daly City fireman. A large delegation from Daly City are planning to attend, and as usual expect to have a wonderful time, as these dances are always looked forward to with much pleasure. Be sure and save the date.

QUICK ACTION OF FATHER SAVES LIFE OF HIS SON

When a lantern carried by the boy exploded, Joe Mendes, of Half Moon Bay, was severely burned in saving his son from being burned to death. With the spread of the flaming coal oil, the boy quickly became a human torch. The father smothered the burning clothing on his son and was severely burned. Father and son had started for the granary, the lad carrying the lantern. The boy stumbled and fell, the lantern exploding and sending flaming oil in all directions.
